INTRODUCTION

13th year—unlucky?

We don't think so. At Harpeth Hall our thirteenth year was a charm: no broken mirrors, no ladders to walk under, no black cats (with one obvious exception)—just a year full of good omens to keep everything lucky. You won't find a trace of bad luck around here; at Harpeth Hall we never touch the stuff.

HEADMISTRESS

We really didn't deserve it, you know. We didn't deserve to find someone who could give her own special touch to everything in just one year. We didn't deserve to find someone who could make a molehill out of a mountain of work, who could become a close friend after just one interview, or who could solve difficult problems with one simple suggestion. How could we have hoped to find such kindness and understanding in one headmistress? Well, we found her anyway; she's called Miss McMurry. Just lucky, I guess.

DEDICATION

What is good luck—really?

Is it really a horseshoe thrown over your left shoulder—or is it a warm sense of humor on a cold, rainy morning?

Is it really a four-leaf clover—or is it a bright smile and a friendly greeting?

Is it a silver charm to wear on a chain, or knowing that someone knows and cares how you feel?

Is it a rabbit's foot, or a lucky coin, or the little things—a smile, a laugh, a cheerful “hello”?

Is good luck really an empty talisman—a trinket of silver, a piece of brass—or is good luck a friend?

What is good luck?—Good luck is a special feeling—good luck is Ro.

IN MEMORIAM

Susan S. Souby

Headmistress of Harpeth Hall

1951-1963

OUR LADY OF THE HALL

Where printed leaves once danced with fall
And flew on painted wing,
She walked among the crystal trees
And heard the ice chimes ring.

She walked beside the glassy ponds
White-framed in snowy lace
And peered into a charcoal sky
To glimpse the heaven-place.

Another spring has come for her;
And scented breezes blow
Where skies are ever Alice blue
And seas are indigo.

But greyest winter left the spot
Where once she stopped and stood;
And blossoms from a spring of youth
Reach out to womanhood.

Oh, really? It looks like a guillotine to me.

They never dreamed I was wearing support stockings until . . .

Today is National Book Week.

Do you want to renew?

Don't mind me; I just live here.
